

CASE: Per agreement, Ky. Power drops rate plan

The company will instead recover part of the costs through an asset transfer rider that will be applied to customer's bills beginning Jan. 1, 2014.

According to a press release issued by Kentucky Power, there will be a net increase of approximately 5 percent. According to its calculations, that means a residential customer using 1,374 kilowatt hours of electricity will see a net increase of $6.70 per month.

Kentucky Power had previously asked for $114 million over existing rates and sought a general rate increase for customers of about 23 percent, but agreed to withdraw the case when the PSC approved a stipulated settlement agreement on the Mitchell Transfer case Oct. 14.

As part of the settlement agreement, Kentucky Power will freeze current base rates.

"Withdrawing this case is something we committed to do when we accepted the stipulated settlement agreement back in October," Kentucky Power managing director and regulatory and finance representative Ranie Wohnhas, said. "Now that all Commission-related appeals have been exhausted, the company filed its request to withdraw the base rate case Nov. 19."

Under the stipulation and settlement agreement approved by the PSC, Kentucky Power is obligated to seek commission approval to convert Unit 1 at its Big Sandy Plant in Lawrence County to natural gas generation. The PSC will have to approve the Unit 1 conversion through a filing the company expects to make early next month, the release said.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Jack Conway was denied his request to the PSC for reconsideration and a rehearing on the commission's order granting Kentucky Power Company's request to acquire 50 percent interest in the Mitchell Plant.

"It is outside the scope of the rehearing statue and cannot now be considered on rehearing. It is therefore ordered that the AG's petition for rehearing is denied," the PSC said.

Lawrence County Attorney Mike Hogan also filed a request with the PSC requesting a rehearing and said he has not yet received any response.

Hogan said previously that if the PSC denies his request for a rehearing, he will follow up with a lawsuit in Franklin Circuit Court.

Conway has also said that he will probably file an appeal in Franklin Circuit Court.

Neither Jude nor Tackett was wearing a seatbelt, the release said, and both were ejected from the vehicle. Tackett was pronounced dead at the scene.

Officials said Edwards was trapped inside her vehicle and had to be extricated.

Jude and Edwards were flown to Cabell-Huntington Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in the collision.

Also assisting the Lawrence County Sheriff's Office at the scene were the Lowmansville and Cherryville fire department and NetCare Ambulance Service.

The crash is under investigation.

Funeral services for Tackett, a student at Johnson Central High School and the daughter of David Tackett of Staffordsville and Rhonda Williamson of Paintsville, were Monday, Nov. 25, at Jones-Preston Funeral Home in Paintsville, with burial in Lakeview Cemetery at Staffordsville.

biggest drug dealers, according to court records.

In August, Atkins ordered Kline to remain detained until his scheduled trial, ruling that he was a danger to society.

"The nature and circumstances of the offense charged suggest the Defendant is a danger," Atkins wrote in his order. ". . . (Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives) Special Agent Ronald Sabotchick testified that there are audio and/or video recordings of numerous controlled buys by confidential informants from the Defendant. Further, during the controlled buy immediately preceding his arrest, the Defendant possessed and brandished a loaded firearm, bragging that he had used the weapon to kill another person. Additionally, Special Agent

Sabotchick testified that the Defendant plotted with the ATF's confidential informant to acquire explosives, intending to kill or severely injure a suspected confidential informant for the Johnson County Sheriff's Office in order to prevent her from testifying against him. The Defendant did later decide not to go through with the plan at that time, in order to avoid drawing attention to himself due to his campaign for sheriff of Johnson County. However, the nature of his withdrawal from the plan simply indicates that he had a strong desire to avoid detection under the existing circumstances. Further, Special Agent Sabotchick testified that the Defendant told the ATF confidential informant that he was involved in or responsible for the murder of four (4) individuals. The nature and circumstances of the alleged offenses suggest that the Defendant poses a risk of danger."

The order said the plan to plant the explosives on the Johnson County informant's car "involved having the explosives planted and remotely detonated by a third party while the Defendant and the ATF confidential informant travel out of state in order to establish alibis."

Atkins found that "there exist no combination of conditions that will reasonably assure the safety of any other person and the community."

The judge ordered that Kline be committed to the custody of the attorney general or a designated representative for "confinement in a corrections facility separate, to the extent practicable, from persons awaiting or serving sentences or held in custody pending appeal."

Court denies rehearing for death row inmate

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Supreme Court Thursday denied a rehearing for an Eastern Kentucky death row inmate.

The court denied a petition for rehearing filed by Donald Herb Johnson, who lost an appeal before the court in September.

In that ruling, the Supreme Court affirmed a lower court decision that said Johnson failed to prove that his guilty plea in Floyd Circuit Court to murder and other charges was coerced.

Johnson, 46, entered a conditional guilty plea in 1994 to murder, first-degree burglary and two counts of first-degree sexual abuse in the November 1989 death of Helen Madden, who was "beaten, stabbed, mutilated and tortured to death in the supply storage room of the Laundromat where she worked" in Hazard, according to the court ruling.

The prosecution sought the death penalty for Johnson and asked that he be sentenced by a jury. Johnson opposed the request, asking that the special judge, John David Caudill, sentence him.

"Though he did not raise the issue at that time, Johnson now claims that he was induced to enter the guilty plea by a promise from Judge Caudill to give him less than the death penalty and his lawyer's threat to withdraw from the representation," the Supreme Court said. "On an interlocutory appeal, this Court held that the prosecution 'can insist on jury-recommended sentencing over a defendant's objection.' The case was remanded for a jury sentencing hearing."

After the case was remanded, Johnson wanted to withdraw his guilty plea, but the motion was denied. A few months before the sentencing hearing in 1997, Johnson's attorneys withdrew from the case, claiming to "have been ineffective by failing to advise Johnson that he could have entered into a conditional guilty plea and that he had the right to a speedy trial."

A new attorney was appointed, and he argued at the sentencing hearing that the former lawyers "led him (Johnson) to believe the judge had either agreed to or in some way indicated that he would give Johnson life without the possibility of parole for 25 years (LWOP 25) instead of death," the ruling said.

The new attorney succeeded in getting the prosecution to agree to Johnson's being sentenced by Caudill, who sentenced Johnson to death. The Supreme Court later upheld the sentence.

Johnson then filed a motion with Caudill "collaterally attacking his sentence and conviction," arguing, among other things, that his guilty plea should be set aside as involuntary because he was "under the belief that the trial judge had agreed to sentence him to life without parole for twenty-five years," the Supreme Court said.

The motion also included numerous allegations of a "secret deal," the court said.

Caudill denied the motion without holding an evidentiary hearing. The court ruled that Caudill erred for not conducting a hearing and sent the case back to Floyd Circuit Court for a hearing on the matter. Caudill was disqualified from presiding over the proceedings because he would be a witness.

Special Judge Eddy Coleman held "a multiple-day evidentiary hearing over the course of several months exploring what exactly transpired in the time leading up to Johnson's guilty plea," the Supreme Court's ruling said.

"Fourteen witnesses testified at the hearing," the ruling said. "Among them were Johnson, various members of his defense team, Judge Caudill, and several members of the judge's staff, including his former court reporter and law clerk."

Following the hearing, Coleman concluded that Johnson "was not promised a life sentence in exchange for a guilty plea by the trial judge or anyone else" and that there was "simply no credible evidence to find otherwise." He also found that Johnson's former attorney did not threaten to withdraw if Johnson refused to plead guilty.

The Supreme Court upheld Coleman's decision in September, saying that the judge's findings "are supported by substantial evidence and therefore are not clearly erroneous."

Floyd robberies investigated

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

STANVILLE — Authorities are investigating two armed robberies that occurred last week in Floyd County.

The first robbery was Thursday at Cardinal Country Store in Stanville. The incident occurred at 1:45 a.m., and an employee of the business confronted the unidentified male, removing the bandana he was wearing so his face could be seen, according to Kentucky State Police at Pikeville.

According to a KSP press release, troopers responded to the scene and began a canvas of the area in an attempt to locate the unidentified male, but were unsuccessful in locating him.

Officials said in the release that the unidentified male entered the business, brand-ished a weapon and demanded money. The employee then confronted the male and removed the bandana, exposing his face.

The robbery remains under investigation by KSP Det. William Petry.

Fast Lane at Eastern was hit by two robbers Friday at 10:29 p.m. Information obtained at the scene said two unidentified men entered the business, brandished weapons and demanded money, then fled the scene on foot with an undisclosed amount of cash and cigarettes.

The incident is under investigation by KSP Det. Tony Tackett.

The KSP is asking that anyone with information pertaining to the investigations or the identity of the perpetrators contact KSP Post 9 in Pikeville at (606) 433-7711 or 1-800-222-5555.

in at the prison from July 1 to July 6 of this year.

Charges against Boyce and Epperson were dismissed in October on the recommendation of federal prosecutors, who entered a plea agreement with Lee Thursday after filing a criminal information against him.

The plea agreement says Lee spoke by telephone with Epperson on several occasions from July 3 to July 6, agreeing that "she would obtain heroin and then provide it to him when she visited him on July 6."

"During these conversations, the Defendant not only instructed Epperson as to where to obtain the heroin, but subsequently confirmed that Epperson had obtained the heroin, that she traveled to Kentucky to visit him, and that she had prepared it so that she could pass it to him in the visitation room without detection," the agreement says. "Epperson did as she and the Defendant had agreed, however, when she arrived at USP Big Sandy, she changed her mind and left the heroin in her vehicle, where it was later discovered by Bureau of Prisons officials."

The plea agreement recommends an additional 37-month sentence for Lee to be served consecutively with his current prison term.

Sentencing is scheduled for March 11, 2014.

WORK: (Continued from A7)

Despite working at the café for 2? years, his employer had no choice but to fire him. The lesson: You're not as anonymous as you might think!

Do you remember some comments you made a while ago on Facebook that you should probably take down?

5. Lying about your past or taking a fake sick day

You might think fudging your résumé is a great way to get that job. Maybe so, but it's also a great way to lose that job! It's easier than ever for an employer to track down gaps and inconsistencies in your work history or education. A quick glance at your LinkedIn profile or your Facebook page could reveal the awful truth.

That goes double for those days you feel like playing hooky. In the 21st century, Ferris Bueller would never have gotten away with his epic Day Off! Mr. Rooney would have seen what he was doing on Twitter long before the Von Steuben Day Parade.

Here's a real world example: A New Zealand man took some sick days to compete in a boat race. He lost his job after this smarty-pant's boss saw the championship photos on Facebook. #fail!

Don't let your boss find any dirt on you.
